Cultivate the Christmas Spirit Now

The approach of the Christmas season brings to nearly every body thrill of pleasurable anticipation. It is a time of happiness and goodwill all round who old disappointments, and enmities, and selfishness are relegated to the background. Already people are busy planning and making gifts for relatives and friends, and it is to be hoped, with a thought for those who are less fortunately placed in life than ourselves.

But there are certain groups in our population to whom the coming of Christmas means the hardest work and longest hours of labor during the whole year. Child in this group are the employees of the post office throughout the country. Persons who seldom write to relatives and friends throughout the year, do so at Christmas time. Millions exchange Christmas cards and other forms of greeting. Parcels containing gifts, sent into the post office in their thousands. And the postal employees have to receive, sort and dispatch all this, and in the cities and along rural routes, deliver it.

Most people think the mailing of their cards of greeting and gifts so they will arrive at their destination one or two days before Christmas, or possibly on Christmas day itself. The inevitable result is such a congestion in the post offices and railway mail cars, that it is a physical impossibility to handle all the business within the short space of time before Christmas Day, no matter how tremendous an effort is made by the postal clerks. This many efforts intended for Christmas are not received by those to whom they are addressed until Christmas is past and gone for another year.

All the more planning, and forethought, and unselfishness in behalf of the post office staff, disposition by postal clerks, and the clerks in stores. Many of them after the strenuous pre-Christmas rush find it necessary to re-examine in bed instead of being able to enjoy and join with others in the joy of the day. Their lot can be made much easier by early shipping. Therefore, in your Christmas articles, give a thought to their comfort and happiness.

In order to be in a position to mail your Christmas parcels early, it is necessary to ship early. Thus both these groups of workers will be helped to give you and the public generally better and more efficient service. Just a word in Christmas-bring your Christmas unselfishness into action well in advance of Christmas Day.

You stand to gain by it in every way. Remember the old saying: "The early bird catches the worm." Well, early shopping means that you have the pick of the goods offered by fair, while the late shopper has to be content with what is left over and previously rejected by the more alert and discriminating shoppers. Early shopping gives you the suitable selection of gifts best designed to meet the needs and cater to the tastes of the one for whom they are intended. It means being in getting them suitably inscribed with appropriate messages and neatly and properly packed. And an attractively tied or parcelled parcel adds much to the pleasure of the one who receives it. Consider an impression of thought and real love on the part of the sender.

Finally, in mailing, observe the instructions of the post office authorities. Put the postage stamps in the upper right-hand corner; the address in the lower right hand corner; place your own name and address as sender in the upper left hand corner; if the parcel contains fragile articles, mark it boldly "Handle with Care" or "Fragile." If you are attaching any Christmas seals or stamps of greeting, place them on the back of the letter or parcel, but not on the same side with the address and postage stamps.

General observance of these little things will greatly expedite the handling of the Christmas rush of mail matter, insure the proper delivery of your parcel, and by speeding up the whole service and lightening the labor of the postal employees result in what you yourself desire, the best possible service.

New Types Of Aeroplanes

British Government Has One That Can Be Converted Into A Yacht

A French engineer, M. de Monro, has invented a new type of aeroplane, which can be driven by ordinary automobile engines. The plane has a motor body. The alternator, tail, and rudder are attached to the front wing by steel rods only, and the pilot and passenger sit in a kind of cockpit in the centre of the wing between the two also horsepower engines that are used. The plane is of course much lighter than the usual type, and it is said that it can be stored with fuel enough for a flight of nearly 1,000 miles. The engine for only a gallon of gasoline for every thirty miles of flight, and drive the plane easily at a hundred miles an hour. The British government has built another experimental aeroplane which has light masts and sails in addition to its aerial equipment. When it has to come down into water the sails can be spread and the plane converted into a little yacht.

The plane is all metal, and is German engineer, Rohrbach by name, is said to have designed it—Youth's Companion.

PAUL BEFORE FELIX

Coloss. Text: Herein I also exercise myself to have a conscience void of offense toward God and men always. Acts 24:16.

Lesson: Acts 23:1-34:27.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 61:1-17.

The Text Explained and Illumined

The Case Against Paul Presented by Tertullus, verses 1-3.—The

When Tertullus presented the case against Paul's accusers to appear against him before Felix.

Five days the high priest Ananias with a deposition from the Sanhedrin arrived in Caesarea. Paul was summoned for trial. Tertullus, the advocate when the Jews had engaged, presented their case against him.

After fulsome words of flattery for Felix, even expressing gratitude for his reforms, Tertullus accused "this rebellious fellow" three times, listing disturbances among the Jews, presenting the Roman case against the Jews, the leader of the sect of the Nazarenes—an offence against the law of Moses; and defiling the temple—an offence against both the law of Moses and the Roman law, since the latter protected the Jews in their worship.

Then Tertullus concluded by accusing the deposition of Jews emphatically by the Roman law.

"We all abhor flattery unless it be to say from us and then we call it by another name" (John A. Sheild).

Radium Clock Should Run Indefinitely

It is Nearest Approach to Perpetual Motion

Perpetual motion has been a long sought goal, and while many ingenious devices have resulted from efforts along this line, all have been impracticable. But recently there has been invented a device which, while not a timepiece, is called a "clock," which is actually declared to run indefinitely. This is known as the "radium clock." As its name suggests, it uses the active force of the radium is atomic energy.

There is no poisonous ingredient in radium's glow. Moreover, it can be used without danger or injury.

Got Radium Instead Of Radio Parts

Woman Accepted $25,000 Package Thinking It Was Her Order

Fifty thousand dollars worth of radium went astray because the Kluge Company, Hollywood, Calif., sent an ambulance driver just when Mrs. Charles L. Feldman, of Brooklyn, expected a package of radio parts from a store. The similarity of the words radio and radium caused all the trouble.

Beside Mrs. Feldman's home is the home and radium hospital of Dr. Chester Ford Duryea. Dr. Duryea has found that radium in the hospital and it was to be returned, according to custom, under guard in an ambulance.

The new driver supposed Dr. Duryea lived next door to his radium hospital and left the package there. When Dr. Duryea arrived at his home, the hospital was told the radium was delivered.

Six hours later, the driver, off duty, was found and explained that the hospital had taken the package from the maid, believing it contained radio parts. She had not opened it.

Nation-wide Fame. — There is scarcely a corner of this great Dominion where the merits of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil have not been tried and proved. It is one of the world's most efficient remedies for sore throat, lame back and many other ailments caused from inflammation. Report Good Bookie Run Reports received by the department of Marine and Fisheries are to the effect that a good run of fish was taken this year for the first time since 1909, in the Stuart Lake district.

The advance of sockeye at this once important spawning area of the river during the past 16 years is due, according to the department, to the fact which occurred in Hell's Gate Canyon in the lower Fraser in 1912. This wide confluence blocked the river to the ascent of salmon.

Wide Phone Service

Long Distance Service in Alberta Has Been Made Continuous Wide

With due ceremony, the inauguration of the continent-wide telephone service in Alberta was celebrated recently, when Governor Birt of Alberta conversed over the long distance telephone with state officials in the states of Montana, Colorado and Arizona, and with Chief Justice Anglin at Ottawa, Ontario. The inauguration of this service, by which Alberta telephone subscribers will be able to converse with any point in the United States and with many points in Eastern and Western Canada and the west, was made possible through the co-operation of the Mountain States Telephone Company with the Alberta Government Telephone. Repeaters have been installed at Lethbridge, Calgary and Medicine Hat, and copper circuits set up from Lethbridge to the boundary of Montana, linking up with copper circuits extended north from Montana. This has made possible the connection with the transcontinental system in the States.

In connection with the historical step taken by the Alberta Government Telephone, it is interesting to note that long distance service in the province has grown from 1,000,000 to 2,500,000 calls in the past ten years, and that in that time the revenue from long distance service has grown from $292,000 a annum to over $1,000,000 per annum.

The first commercial call over the central system was given from Edmonton, when a resident of Edmonton conversed with a friend in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

A serum which may reduce the mortality of high blood pressure was described by Dr. F. H. G. Starr, of Toronto, at the annual conference of the American College of Surgeons, Philadelphia.

Dr. Starr said that William J. McDonald had been working on the serum in the research laboratories of the University of Toronto for some time, but that it had not yet reached a point to permit a detailed description or an optimistic statement of its probable efficacy. He said the serum was a liver extract. High blood pressure, he explained, usually was due to hardening of the arteries, which was caused by an inflammation, possibly of germ origin.

Edmonton Attains Majority

Was Officially Created a City on Nov. 7, 1924

Edmonton became an adult among cities on Nov. 7.

On the 21st day of the month, on November 7, 1924, Edmonton was officially created a city. Since that date the population has grown from 7,500 to 63,748.

There are 38 trailer camps in the city today, as compared with one then; 13,844 telephones in use where 450 supplied the city then. The trade and the Klondike rush put the city on the map in the early days.

Now it is the legislative and educational centre of the province and the distributing point for Central and Northern Alberta, as well as the gateway to the Arctic far lands.

New Colonization Plan

Community Move of British Settlers to Canada Is Proposed

While the department of immigration is working with the overseas settlement board on a full cooperative program for the purpose of increasing immigration to Canada from the United Kingdom, dental was made at the department of any personal knowledge or official connection with a new movement of British subjects to the Dominion, calling for the migration of 50,000 families to the Dominion within a period of five years.

The plan, it was said, according to the cable report, were to be settled on Canadian farms in communities, and not in colonies.

Ashe of Climber, Scattered
From the summit of one of the highest mountains in the distribution north of England, the cremated ashes of Seymour Gubb were scattered to the winds as a fitting funeral rite for a mountaineering hero.

Mr. Gubb, who for 32 years was headmaster of Taunton's School, Southampton, has been a member of the mountaineering club for many years. Fellow climbers have conducted the funeral service.

New Injection Purify Blood

Modern surgeons have partially reverted to a practice of the Dark Ages, when blood letting and leeches were considered the most efficacious of remedies.

The medical wizards of those ages believed the blood stream carried all diseases. When a man in those days had a fever, a cold, or affliction of any sort, a "chirurgeon" was called in and his patient was at once bled.

But, although modern science has returned in part to this practice it is teaching also that the blood stream can be purified with powerful injections—known as diphtheries.

All this was brought out by Dr. H. M. Young, of Johns Hopkins Medical College, in explaining the work undertaken by the American College of Surgeons in the formation of a committee on antiseptics, of which Dr. Young is chairman, to gather material for a vast symposium on modern antiseptic surgery.

This work is undertaken as a memorial to Lister, the hundredth anniversary of whose birth will be celebrated April 15, 1927. Lister's work on Pasteur's theory of the germ origin of infection, by his antiseptic discoveries, laid the foundation for modern surgery.

"Libary Navigator" Travels 38,000 Miles in Homemade Craft

Circumnavigation of the globe in a small boat was accomplished by Harry Palmer, 54 year old photographer, known to many as the "Libary Navigator." He made port at St. Paul, Alaska, after traversing 38,000 miles in his homemade, rock-bottom craft, the Islander, since he set sail from San Pedro, November 18, 1921.

Keep Tenth Commandment

One Reason Why Canada and U. S. Live Peaceably

Canadian officials have issued figures on the automobile tonnage entering the Dominion during the past summer, setting forth that 2,000,000 automobiles crossed the line, carrying 3,000,000 travelers. The astounding fact is that these 3,000,000 strangers, chiefly from the United States, equalled in number the total population of Canada.

That is, notwithstanding the fact that the population of our northern neighbor was the migration was made without difficulty, and that the two nations have the same food, near the border United States currency was accepted without question. A common language is much to do with the ease with which tourists are made at home. The chief reason for this freedom of travel is that Canada and the United States are free from racial rivalry. Politically, Canada and America keep the Tenth Commandment. If European countries would not "envy their neighbor's goods" many munition factories would go broke.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Need Alaskan Base

For Polar Flights

Useless to Attempt Trip Otherwise

Says Veteran Arctic Navigator

Alfred W. Huxley, an Arctic explorer, has been in Polar exploration, providing the flights are attempted from a large base in Alaska, according to Captain Huxley, veteran Arctic navigator, who was one of the late Comdr. Keyes's party when he made his last voyage to the Arctic.

"It is useless to attempt to fly across the vast Arctic regions adjacent to the Pole, with only a few months preparation and with the planes of old," Captain Huxley said. "Personally, I don't believe it is wise to expect large scale expeditions of this nature to be successful from such places as Etah. There is one place where these flights can be started, and that is over the Alaskan coast and in the Polar Basin."

Find Valuable Collection

Chest of Drawers in Mayfair Yields $75,000 in Stamps

A collection of postage stamps hidden in an old bureau in a Mayfair house in London, sixty years ago has been accidentally discovered, and found worth $75,000. The stamps, which were $150. Search for a lost jewel case led to unearthing the famous collection of stamps. Some of the stamps were never before seen by collectors. The most interesting are two sheets of halfpenny Ceylon stamps, which are 1858—two sheets of these stamps exist. The grandfather of the owner's husband collected the stamps when he was young. Collectors from many parts of Europe will attend the sale of the collection.

Wonderful New Device

A demonstration of a new device for the phonographic recording of music, which is expected eventually to save thousands of lives annually, by making possible improved methods of diagnosing heart disease, has been given by the Columbia Phonograph Company, New York. It is possible to record sounds which ordinarily are so faint as to escape detection by the human ear.
